The Adirondack Guideboat is a flat-bottomed boat with a deep 'V'-shaped hull. It is symmetrical side-to-side and end-to-end. Bearing sharp stems on either ends, it is a true double-ender. The hull is lap-straked with a beveled overlap, making it smooth-skinned. The ribs and stems are sawn from the natural crooks of spruce roots.

At the Adirondack Museum, Carl Hathaway narrates a video of Willard Hanmer building a guideboat. Having been a docent in the boat shop while Allison builds guideboats for many years, I have heard Carl's narration a hundred times if not more. When Willard takes his boat off the jig, Carl intones "the boat is about half done".
