Natural light is highly desirable light in a home, simply because it makes everything look appealing. Lighting schemes relying on natural light are called daylighting, and builders and architects are getting more requests than ever before to implement it in new construction. Perhaps it's because we spend many of our busy hours sitting at a desk indoors, but we didn't evolve that way.

The homes are owned by CalTrans—a company that once sought to expand the 710 freeway. In the 50s, 60s, and 70s, it bought hundreds of homes for this purpose. However, the freeway expansion was rejected by the community. Instead of using the homes for good, or doing anything with them at all, 163 homes sat vacant all these years.
